- Everyone, in today's world, wants to succeed in their lives. But it is actually difficult for those who don't plan their journeys. In case, those plans don't work out you should always have a Plan B.
- The most common mistakes made by many of the entrepreneurs are that they lack self-belief. One should always trust on themselves and take decisions accordingly. The core of any start up is belief. A belief that a day might come when my company will be on the rise.
- Not only in business but in every stream our objective should be clear.
- If anyone thinking about start-up, sources of fund should first be concerned. Talk to those who already have had the experience in same business.
